FROM THE EDITORS TO YOU

The editors have adopted book form for this commencement issue of the SHAW UNIVERSITY JOURNAL in order to present a true picture of this year's college days. If in the future years each page brings back fond memories of Shaw and increases your love for Alma Mater, the editor's wish will have been fulfilled.

DEDICATION

To ROBERT P. DANIEL, President of Shaw University, whose first year of service to Alma Mater has endeared him to the Class of 1937, we respectfully and affectionately dedicate this commencement issue of the SHAW UNIVERSITY JOURNAL.

Shaw Hall Entrance

Shaw University was founded in 1865 by Dr. Henry Martin Tupper of Moulton, Massachusetts. It receives its name from Mr. Elijah Shaw of Wales, Massachusetts, a liberal contributor to the institution. It is the second oldest institution of higher learning for Negroes in the South. It was the first Negro institution in the South to open its doors to young women.

HISTORY OF THE SENIOR CLASS

*"We have not wings, we cannot soar;
But we have feet to scale and climb*

*By slow degrees, by more and more,
The cloudy summits of the time."*

LONGFELLOW.

Here we are ready to begin a long and tiresome journey to an institution of higher learning where we shall undergo several changes:

STAGE I—IGNORANCE

September 1933 found us a group of one hundred or more boys and girls on our journey to a land of higher education. The journey ended at Shaw University where we found a campus as lovely and as green as we. As we landed from our barge and looked about us we wondered if all our desires would be fulfilled. We pledged then and there "to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

We were green we admit, but we did not let this hamper us or thwart our aim for under the vigilance of Mr. E. J. Quick whom we elected as our president and Mr. J. F. Price as our adviser we steadily climbed to the stage of wisdom.

During this first stage of development we exemplified many talents in various fields: basketball, football, debating, and the choir. Many important events occurred in this stage also: Richard B. Harrison "De Lawd" visited the University at the close of the year, and many of us traveled over the eastern and western parts of the state. Memorable are those experiences. We were represented on the debating team by Messrs. Bobby Dunn, Floy Holley, and Elijah Wells. Ours was the loss, but we took it sportsmanly as we knew what was being accomplished in other activities. Miss Sadie Stanley was elected Miss Y.W.C.A. The end of the first year found a few of us on the University Honor Roll. Misses F. Creecy, M. Carr, and M. Foster made a hit on the basketball team; Messrs. S. Gilliam, J. Kibler, and W. Walden did likewise on the football team. We are realizing our desires.

Spring found us a happy energetic group, proud of our achievements, strolling around, enjoying the beauties of nature. We are now wise. June is here all too soon, for we hate to leave our happy home.

STAGE II—WISDOM

All right wise birds, what are you going to do now? Watch us and see. We are smaller in number but not in will. Well it is good to be wise. We decided this year to work diligently and watch the results, but first of all we had to make sure that the freshmen drank from the same cup as we, but more abundantly. Assisted by Mr. J. F. Price we settled down in a few weeks with the competent Mr. Bobby Dunn as our leader.

In the field of debating Messrs. J. Dixon, Kermit White, and Miss Laura White represented us; again we lost but we did not worry. This year Miss Evelyn Boone was crowned "Miss Shaw," Miss Cooley became soprano soloist, Miss Creecy basketball star, supported by Misses Carr and Foster. Misses Creecy and Carr also made a striking entrance in drama. We will see our desires fulfilled. The brink of the stage of honor is at our feet; we must continue to climb.

STAGE III—HONOR AND CONFIDENCE

"Let man know his worth and keep things under his feet." This has been our slogan. The age of honor and self-reliance has engulfed us. This year we chose Mr. Wm. Jones for our president and Mr. Price our adviser for the third time. His steady hand guided us through rough places and rugged roads. Our talents were displayed more fully. We had to do our best. We were happy to have two members of our class to be given membership to the Alpha Omicron Honor Society. These members were Mrs. Undean Jones and Miss Izola Reynolds. In the student government Mr. J. Dixon and Mr. Wm. Jones represented us. Mr. Floyd Holley served as editor of the University Journal. Many of us toured the state of South Carolina with the choir.

The annual Junior-Senior Prom was given in the City Auditorium. This affair ended the third year and we found ourselves at the door of dignity.

STAGE IV—DIGNITY

We passed successfully through the first three years with laurels and now we are in the stage of authority, still keeping things under our feet. This year Mr. Osceola Moore our president and Mr. Price our adviser were chosen to lead us to the end.

Mr. Dixon and Miss Cooley became heads of the Student Body, and Miss White became Secretary. Miss Scarborough and Mr. Moore represented us on the Student Council. Our prestige was also extended over the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A.'s, the leaders being Mr. Paul Johnson and Miss Genive Foushee.

In February and March Messrs. William Jones, Kermit White, Tessie Thomas, Misses Elizabeth Cooley, Queen Palmer, Lucy Saunders, and Mrs. Undean Jones made a successful entrance in the realm of play production. These members were cast for "The Ninth Guest" and "The Patsy." Mr. Floyd Holley again served as editor of the University Journal.

For three successive years Mrs. Jones has won the $32.50 prize for having the highest scholastic record in the class. Misses Cooley and Foushee also won prizes. Quite a number of us were on the honor roll at the end of this time. Misses Izola Reynolds, Queen Palmer, and Mrs. Undean Jones made the honor roll for seven consecutive semesters. Others of us were fortunate enough to gain membership to Alpha Omicron Honor Society, namely, Misses Wilmoth Carter, Elizabeth Cooley, Ruth Bass, Geraldine Cubiness, Queen Palmer, and Mr. Floyd Holley.

We had the experience of seeing several changes at the University. It was a pleasure to see the University enter into the N.I.D.A.; improvements were made in the buildings and most important of all, the change in the administration; new president, new dean of women, new faculty members.

Many and long have been our meetings to thrash out the plans for our closing activities.

After toiling and sweating for a long time we were refreshed by a Prom given by the Juniors. It is well to be a host but better to be the guest.

Graduation is at hand but it does not, we hope, mean the end of things, for we have higher aspirations.

QUEEN ESTHER PALMER.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

THE STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
COUNTY OF WAKE

We, the Senior Class of Shaw University, of the county of Wake, State of North Carolina, being in good bodily health and of a sound and disposing mind and memory and fully realizing the uncertainty of death and being desirous of the capacity and strength to do so, hereby make and declare this, our last will and testament.

ARTICLE I. To Mr. J. Francis Price, our class adviser, we will a new car, a "Blue Heaven," with the hope that in the future he will not be seen walking so much.

ART. II. To Mr. Foster P. Payne, our Dean, we leave a sincere wish for a happy and long life.

ART. III. To the members of the faculty, we will a door to their new dining room, hoping that it will remain closed during meal time.

ART. IV. To Mr. G. E. Jones, the Business Manager, we leave all our unpaid bills.

ART. V. To the proud Junior Class we will all the privileges, dignity, and responsibilities required of a Senior Class.

ART. VI. To the Sophomore Class we bequeath the front seats in chapel.

ART. VII. To the Freshman Class we leave a pamphlet entitled, "How to Applaud and When."

ART. VIII. To certain individuals we hereby bequeath the following:

To Mr. Robert Garrett, Mr. Osceola Moore bequeaths his ability to become president of the Senior Class.

To Marcelle Campbell, Mrs. Undean Wiggins Jones bequeaths her ability to study and lead her class.

To Mr. Randolph Brock, Mr. Kermit White bequeaths his sway with the "Peolas."

To Miss Naomi Sampson, Miss Wilmoth Carter leaves her dignity, and her ability to lead.

To Mr. John Esby, Mr. William "Fats" Jones leaves his city young women with a promise that he will protect them always.

To Mr. Collier, Mr. Floyd Holley leaves all the business of the senior class, hoping that he will succeed without any trouble.

To Miss Ruby Garrett, Miss E. E. Cooley leaves her seat in the choir and a hope that she will soon be a leading soloist for the choir.

To Miss Lenora Stephenson, Miss "Gerry" Cabness leaves all the college young men but takes Mr. "Ben" Neal with her to show him a better life.

To Miss Lena Graves, Miss Florence Rice leaves her dignity and her ability to dress becomingly.

To Misses Vida James, Blyandena Davis, and Virginia Holley, Essie Mizelle, Frances Owens, and Marguerite Hines leave their abilities to keep up with all the campus secrets.

To Miss Theora Weaver, Miss Fredericka Young leaves her lady-like disposition.

To Mr. William DeBerry, "Fats" Jones leaves his power to filibuster.

To Miss Emily Daniels, Miss Esther Brett leaves the secret to keeping her love affairs undercover.

To Miss Juanita Price, Miss Lillie Price leaves her place on the campus.

To Miss Beatrice Weaver, Lucy Saunders leaves her ability to sew and cook with the one hope that some day she will make Mr. John Christian a good wife.

To Miss Marguerite Carson, Miss Genive Pushee leaves her four years' experience in the Registrar's office.

To Miss Dorothy Smith, Miss Catherine Edgerton bequeaths the next postman as Mr. E. J. Quick is leaving the institution.

To Miss Mary Holt, Miss Dollie Daniels leaves her place as waitress in the teachers' dining room.

To Miss Vina Phillips, Miss Frazier Creecy leaves her ability to play basketball.

To Mr. Ulysses Banks, Hollis Creecy, and John Flemings, Mr. William Lawrence leaves his appetite.

To Miss Esther Aycock, Miss Queen Palmer bequeaths her ability to arrange hair for all occasions.

To Miss Algenora Greene, Miss Susie Arrington leaves all her mathematics books.

To Mr. Melrose Nimmo, Mr. John Edwards "Bear" wills his ability to tackle in a football game.

To Mr. McCoy Barnes, the former captain of the football team leaves his position as captain.

To Mr. Fred Matthews, Mr. Theodore Shell bequeaths his extensive vocabulary.

To Mr. Vincent Tibbs, Mr. Johnnie Larkins wills his ability as a professional gripe.

To Miss Juanita Johnson, Miss Edna Fairley leaves the ability to be seen and not to be heard.

To Miss Alice Crow, Miss Ocella Ragland bequeaths her sense of hospitality.

To Mr. Walter Moore, Mr. John Dixon leaves his leadership ability.

To Miss Mary Dickens, Miss Ruth Bass leaves her poise and refinement.

To Miss Viola Ezelle, Miss Rosalia Jolly bequeaths Spenser Durant.

To Miss Annie Sykes, Miss Izola Reynolds bequeaths her place as secretary of the Alpha Omicron Honor Society.

To Miss Helen Mitchell, Miss Clara Cooke leaves her humor, good spirit, and the ability to entertain.

To Miss Mildred Wall, Miss Laura White leaves her stenographic ability.

To Mr. Julius Holden, Mr. Reece Sinclair bequeaths his ability to gain and lose girl friends.

To Mr. Chester Riddick, Mr. Isiah Taylor bequeaths a portion of his height.

To Johnathan Wilder, Mr. James Smith leaves his ability to teach history.

To Mr. James Odum, Mr. Charles Chambers leaves his dignity and intelligence.

To Mr. George Marshall, Mr. John Slade leaves his ability to hold a girl friend.

To Mr. Leroy McLaurin, Mr. B. T. Maides leaves his position as school electrician.

To Miss Anna Wall, Miss Mary F. Carr bequeaths her position as a basketball star.

To Mr. Elmer Hairston, Mr. George Dalton bequeaths his place in Science Department.

To Miss Crystabelle Graham, Miss Marie Cook bequeaths her St. Aug. boy friends because they will be in her way after leaving Shaw.

To Miss Marguerite Rogers, Miss Jessica Holley bequeaths the ability to control her temper.

To Miss Fannie Lawson, Miss Hazel Owens leaves Mr. Charles James but she leaves a request that he be returned to her after he has graduated from Shaw.

If there be any property of ours left that we have not bequeathed, we leave the same to our executors to use as they see fit.

Signed the 31st day of May, nineteen hundred and thirty-seven.

WITNESSES:

J. E. Dixon,
William Jones.

ESTHER BRETT, Testator.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

One beautiful afternoon as I was sitting alone in my apartment in Baltimore, Maryland, I received the greatest surprise of my life, when the door bell rang and in stepped my former classmate, Susie Arrington. Susie informed me that she was on her way to see her husband, Claude Smith, who was one of the leading lawyers in Philadelphia. I opened my memory book, in order to show it to Susie, and we discussed the members of the class of 1937 individually.

After Susie told me that Eula Alston was married to a congressman from Detroit, I suggested that since I had always been a great talker that she let me tell her all that I had heard about our classmates. Thus I began:

Ruth Bass received her Ph.D. in French last winter. She and her husband, Moses Newsome, are residing in Chicago.

Dorothy Bellamy is married to Samuel Gilliam, principal of the Booker T. Washington High School at Rocky Mount, N. C.

Anne Bowers heads the French Department at the University of Michigan.

Esther Brett is married to William Jones, who is the most outstanding politician in Geneva.

Ophelia Briggs received her Master's Degree in chemistry last summer.

Kernit White is the most outstanding physician in Philadelphia.

Geraldine Cabiness is married to Benjamin Neal, while Marion Jordan has finally gained Alexander Smith, and Queen Palmer, William Brown.

Mary F. Carr is the coach of the girls' basketball team at Statesville, N. C., and is assisted by Charles Chalmers.

Scelena Carter is married to Pete Williams, II, and lives in Philadelphia.

Wilmoth Carter is the wife of "Baby" E. J. Quick. They are both in Europe visiting Johnnie Larkins, who is a prominent actor.

Marie Cooke, the dietitian at Howard University, is happily married to James Knight.

Elizabeth Cooley now has her Ph.D. in Psychology and has recently married James Galvey.

B. Frazier Creecy has turned professional and is coaching Women's basketball at Shaw merely as a pastime.

Dollie Daniels heads the French Department at Shaw University and resides there with her husband, Frank Dalton.

Catherine Edgerton is married to Theodore Little, John Dixon to Ophelia Durham, and Anna Scarborough to John Slade.

Beatrice Joyner is married to Floyd Holley, the editor of the New York Times, while her pal, Ocella Ragland is married to George Hyman, a national officer in the Y.M.C.A.

Edna Fairley, Maude Foster, Katie Gray, Marguerite Hines, Jennie Davis, Jessica Holley, and Rosalia Jolley are playing on Broadway in the "Big Seven" play production.

Laura White is now Raleigh's greatest typist.

Udean Jones is still teaching at her home, Cofield, N. C.

Essie Mizelle says that her husband, Booker T. Maides, is the greatest electrician in the state of North Carolina.

Frances Owens is Dean of Women at Shaw University, and Genive Foushee is Secretary to the registrar at Shaw.

Lillie Price is the head nurse at Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore, Maryland.

Izola Reynolds is associate professor of Education at Ohio State.

Theodore Shell is grand Basileus of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity.

William Lawrence received his Ph.D. in history last winter.

Betsy Perry and Ruth Thompson are married to senators from Chicago and New York respectively.

Marjorie Sills is secretary to the President of Shaw University.

Reece Sinclair has been elected mayor of Raleigh.

Oseola Moore will compete for world championship in tennis next week.

Isaluh Taylor, along with his wife Fredericka Young, is doing splendid work in the social field.

William Thomas, Clifton Faison, James Freeman, Otho Sherrill, and Sidney Williams are outstanding members of the House of Representatives.

Charles Cooper, since leaving college, has been travelling in Africa and India and owns many large industrial plants in the leading industrial cities of America.

Susie didn't inform me that she had intended spending only two hours at my apartment, hence the time passed so swiftly that she missed her train and had to spend the night with me. Until this time I had done all the talking, it was her time now.

CLARA COOKE,

LILLIE PRICE,

CLASS POEM

Today, a day of shadows emblazoned by the sun of memory,
 And stilled by the placid voice of duty,
 Calls us from these scenes of concrete theory
 Beyond the portals of life's enriching beauty.

Ere we approach the eve that leads unto yon vista dawning,
 Our souls, perturbed by the profound recess of grief,
 Inscribed indelible appreciation upon
 memory's mooning,
 As effulgently resilient with love we hail our Alma Mater chief.

Dear Shaw, the cherished school of our unflinching trust,
 Majestically standing 'mid monumental scenes of grandeur,
 Imbue us with glorious truth—you inevitably must—
 While departing we take you as our guiding star and lure.

Shaw, Shaw, 'though praise and adoration of the mystic moon
 Resound within realms resplendent with suspended hopes,
 Never can we hallow thy name with sufficient adorn
 To perpetuate thru the expanse of years thy never dying notes.

May all our walks in humanity's train of fame
 Direct us forever, dear Shaw, to the standards set by you.
 May our lips never cease to proclaim the same,
 'Till time has imprinted "Shaw" upon living skies of blue.

Farewell to thee, dear Shaw, farewell,
 but not goodbye;
 How sweet the memory still as we do now depart;
 How dear the grasses, the grounds,
 and buildings high,
 O, Immortal Spot, may loyalty never from thy banners part.

WILMOTH CARTER.

CLASS SONG

(Tune of My Task)

For years we dreamed of higher education,
 To Shaw we came for that matriculation;
 We were as green as freshmen always are
 And thought of home and friends,
 And thought of home and friends
 The whole year through.

Our upperclassmen years were grand and bright;
 We never lost the beacon of the light;
 We mastered every course by work and prayer!
 And gave our best in all,
 And gave our best in all
 To dear old Shaw.

We trust that we have met your expectation,
 And now that we are near our graduation—
 We pledge to remember you so fondly,
 And always give our aid,
 And always give our aid
 To thee Dear Shaw.

THE PERFECT MATES OF THE SENIOR CLASS

In the making of a woman for the senior class we must take in consideration the statements of Holmes and Lessing: "Nature is in earnest when she makes a woman" and "Nature intended that woman should be her masterpiece." We are now earnestly making a masterpiece.

The perfect woman will have the height of Dorothy Bellamy, physique of Maude Foster, legs of Undean Jones, feet of Marie Cook, and hands of Mary Williford. She will have eyes like Betsy Perry, nose like Esther Brett, lips like Izola Reynolds, teeth like Marlon Jordan, hair like Ruth Bass, complexion like Selena Carter, and carriage like Anna Scarborough. Her voice will be that of Marguerite Hines and she will smile like Florence Rice.

We will find many qualities in our perfect woman. She will be interesting like Genive Foushee and converse like Anne Bowers. Her sense of humor will be that of Clara Cook. She will possess the amiability of Dollie Daniels and the cleverness of Laura White. Her discretion will equal that of Ruth Thompson, her earnestness that of Eula Alston, her constancy that of Catherine Edgerton, and her hospitality that of Beatrice Joyner. She will economize like Naomi Leach, have self-control like O'ella Ragland, be thorough like Jessica Holley, sympathetic like Lillie Price, and patient like Nettie Carr. These qualities alone will not complete our masterpiece, however, for in addition the perfect woman's oratorical ability will equal that of Wilmoth Carter, her ability to play a piano that of Anna Hodge, her athletic ability that of Bessie F. Creecy, and her singing ability that of Geraldine Cabness. She will be kind like LaSenia McCrimmon, and have Christian-like ideas like Fredericka Young. Her appreciation of beauty will equal that of Essie Mizelle, her dramatic ability that of Elizabeth Cooley, her ideals those of Anne Robison, her ambitions those of Susie Arrington, and her business ability that of Frances Owens. She will be competent like Margie Sills, brave like Mary F. Carr, tactful like Ophelia Briggs, trustworthy like Edna Fairley, neat like Clementine Holden, and friendly like Queen Palmer. Finally, she will be well-dressed like Jennie Davis, graceful like Rosalie Jolley, witty like Willie M. Hardy, and sophisticated like Katie Gray. Behold . . . we now have the perfect woman.

Let us not stop until we have created a mate for the perfect woman, one who fulfills all the qualities of manhood. This ideal man will have the height of Willie Lawrence, the physique of Charles Cooper, be handsome like Kermit White, and well-groomed like James Galley. His athletic ability will equal that of John Edwards, his ambition that of Albert Fryar, his business ability that of Floyd Holley, and his versatility that of John Slade. He shall be witty like Claude Smith, self-controlled like Isaiah Taylor, brave like George Hyman, punctual like William Murphy, trustworthy like William Westbrooks, and clever like Theodore Shell. His courteousness and manliness shall equal that of Osceola Moore, his scholarship that of William Jones, his self-assurance that of Reese Sinclair, his loyalty and sincerity that of Paul Johnson. The perfect man will be friendly like Frank Dalton, inventive like Booker Maides, an actor like William T. Thomas, individualistic like Johnnie Larkins, enthusiastic like John Dixon, musical like Elias Quick, patient like Benjamin Neal, chivalrous like Clifton Falson, practical and economical like Sidney Williams, faithful like Jasper Freeman, and a good sport like Charles Chalmers.

"As there is in nature, so there is in art, a point of perfection. He who discovers it, and is touched with it, has a good taste; he who is not sensible of it, but loves what is below or above that point, understands neither art nor nature." Perfection . . . we have sought perfection in the discovery of our ideal perfect senior mates. "Ideals we do not make. We discover, not invent them."

CHARLES CHALMERS,
